

All right, let's take a quick break and thank our sponsor of this episode and that is Chapter Select. Chapter Select is a seasonal podcast.

We have Max Roberts and Logan Moore pick a series of video games or movies to explore their evolution design and legacy. Each season of chapter select focuses on a different franchise with guests joining along the way to discuss the media outside of the individual titles

Chapter select Season 5 starts this month and will center around the Resident Evil series, which I'm sure is a game series that many people listening to this show hold dear.

Logan, the Resident Evil veteran, will finally be bringing Max under the RE umbrella. They'll be playing a mix of the old games, the remakes, and the latest in the series. With Resident Evil 4 remake on the horizon, there is no better time to play through the iconic franchise and be led on this path by Chapter Select.

Chapter Select already has an extensive backlog of evergreen episodes.

Previous seasons are focused on The Last of Us, which again, great time, Paper Mario, God of War, including Ragnarök, Banjo-Kazooie, and the Fast and Furious movies. I always see the hosts of Chapter Select, they will post some of these in like, Max will post them in our Discord sometimes and I always really appreciate the work that they do with their artwork. Like, it just looks really good. It really fits in with the style of each of the series that they're talking about it any one time.

Chapter Select has huge plans for 2023 with work on season 6 already underway.

They'd love it if you joined them throughout this year at chapterselect.com.

Our thanks to Chapter Select for their support of this show and relay FM.
